

A Report on Indian Lok Sabha Election 2024

- BJP's Dominance: The Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) is a dominant pressure in Indian politics, and the 2024 standard election is no exception as securing 240 seats out of 543. This strong performance highlights the party's persisted dominance in Indian politics.
- Indian National Congress: The INC won ninety nine seats within the Lok Sabha, its maximum tally considering the fact that 2009, preserving its function as the number one competition celebration. Despite now not winning as many seats because the BJP, the Congress birthday party has a massive presence this time.
- Regional Party's Impact: Regional parties just like the Samajwadi Party (SP), All India Trinamool Congress (AITC), and Dravida Munnetra Kazhagam (DMK) additionally executed properly, securing 37, 29, and 22 seats, respectively. This underscores the significance of local politics in India as Samajwadi Party made big contribution to INC.
- TDP's Resurgence: The Telugu Desam Party (TDP) managed to secure sixteen seats. The birthday party's alliance with the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) and the Jana Sena Party (JSP) has paid off, with the NDA alliance winning 21 out of 25 Lok Sabha seats inside the kingdom.
- Maharashtra's Results: In Maharashtra, the BJP and its allies confronted competition from local events like Shiv Sena (Uddhav Balasaheb Thackeray faction) and the Nationalist Congress Party (Sharadchandra Pawar faction), which gained 9 and 8 seats, respectively.
The opposition INDIA bloc won the bulk of constituencies in the state
- UP's Political Landscape: Uttar Pradesh stays a key battleground with a robust overall performance with the aid of each the BJP and the Samajwadi Party. BJP gained multiple seats in this important nation, reflecting its robust foothold however The BJP slipped to 33 seats, a tremendous decline from its sixty two seats in the 2019 election.

The INDIA bloc's overall performance become visible as a major upset, defying predictions of a third term for PM Narendra Modi.

- Bihar political development: In Bihar, phenomena like the Rashtriya Janata Dal (RJD) and the Janata Dal maintained their influence, winning four and 12 seats respectively. The Lok Janashakti Party won another five seats, falling asleep expressed a variety of politics.
The National Democratic Alliance with the support of the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) maintained strength in Bihar and won 30 out of 40 seats.
The Janata Dal (United) (JDU) (JDU)) won 12 seats, while the Lok Janashakti Party won 5. Rashtriya Janata Dal (RJD), Congress and Left won 9 seats in Bharat Khand .
- Kerala results: Kerala recorded impressive wins for the Indian Union Muslim League (IUML) and the Communist Party of India (Marxist), winning three and four seats respectively. In Kerala, the Congress-led United Democratic Front (UDF) won 18 of the 20 seats, while the Left Democratic Front (LDF) won 2 seats.
The National Democratic Alliance (NDA) in Kerala has no seats at the moment. Suresh Gopi has created a record by turning out to be the main BJP candidate who won the Kerala Lok Sabha seat
- North-Eastern States: Parties like United People's Party, Liberal Party (UPPL) in Assam and Nationalist Democratic Progressive Party in Nagaland asserted that they had performed strongly, winning seats in their respective states. This indicates the importance of imminent events in the Northeast.
- Voter turnout: The election saw multiple voters and competitive differences in different constituencies. 5In constituencies like Khajuraho and Vidisha in Madhya Pradesh, BJP candidates showed strong support and made huge gains.